Japanese German Symposium on

Frontiers in Future Materials Design

The meeting aims to bring together leading researchers and rising stars in materials research, with a focus on exploring new frontiers in materials design, synthesis and characterization across chemistry, physics, and materials science. By connecting scientists from Japan and Europe, we hope to spark fresh ideas, explore new directions in materials research, and foster collaborations between scientists existed about pushing the frontiers of materials research across the globe.

Over the course of the meeting, 22 invited oral presentations will be featured, followed by engaging discussions and complemented by ample networking opportunities.

Registration until June 15th, 2025
